

A photograph of a traditional Japanese wooden building, likely a residence or workshop, with a tiled roof. The building shows signs of age and weathering, with dark wood siding and a prominent entrance. The roof is made of dark tiles, and there is a smaller section with a reddish-brown tiled roof on the left. The building is situated in a rural or semi-rural area, with a clear blue sky and some power lines visible in the background.

物置

